

Ms. Shirley Lee was born and raised in a loving intellectual family in Beijing China. When she was a child, she loved dancing and singing in front of people.

Shirley choose her path through her goals and braveness and when she immigrated to the United States, she had no any knowledge of law. After owning an import business, she faced many lawsuits related to the business. She learned all legal procedures and legal theories from court battles. Shirley learned lessons from losing business because of her lack of legal knowledges in United States. A successful business must follow the laws to protect your rights and your business. From legal practice, she found her passion for studying law and she decided to get her paralegal certificate and continue her education. She strongly believes that when you lack the legal knowledge, one can be bullied and deceived easily from others. We must empower each other by studying the legal profession.

She likes to keep her life busy and meaningful by attending local community services, elections, and cultural exchanges. She brings City Mayors on trips to China wherein the goal is to build the bridge of friendships and business collaborations to benefit United States and China’s economic developments.

Shirley heard about SCCoLPA when she was a student at West Valley College. She was thrilled to join this non-profit organization. She gets to know people who are working in the legal field and she can learn from them. Also, she attends some seminars to learn more about the legal profession and in order to improve her skillset.
